Homily Helps

† Comment for the day:

A prominent theme of the post-resurrection narratives is the sending of the Spirit among the disciples. In the Gospel, Jesus promises that the Father will send a new Advocate, the Spirit of truth. In Acts, the apostles are sent to Samaria to pray that that new adherents to the faith might receive the Holy Spirit. And in his first letter, Peter reminds all of us that we should be ready to explain to anyone who asks our reason for hope.

In Laudato Si' Pope Francis invites us to reflect on our lifestyle and ideals while we simultaneously contemplate the God who created us and lives in our midst. When we recognize the presence of the Spirit in our hearts and in our communities, we can find the hope we need as we confront the problems of our world today. Without God there is no hope, but animated by God's Spirit we are emboldened to invite all people and all of creation to cry out to God with joy! Apart from God, we may despair, but with God we can renew our lives and the web of relationships upon which our lives are built. Laudato Si'! Praise be to God!

† Scripture passages to note:

Acts 8: Now when the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent them Peter and John, who went down and prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Spirit.

Psalm 66: Let all the earth cry out to God with joy.

1st Peter 3: Always be ready to give an explanation to anyone who asks you for a reason for your hope.

John 14: If you love me, you will keep my commandments. And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate to be with you always, the Spirit of truth.

† Passages from Laudato Si' to note:

An integral ecology includes taking time to recover a serene harmony with creation, reflecting on our lifestyle and our ideals, and contemplating the Creator who lives among us and surrounds us, whose presence must not be contrived but found, uncovered. (#225)

The Spirit, infinite bond of love, is intimately present at the very heart of the universe, inspiring and bringing new pathways. (#238)

The divine Persons are subsistent relations, and the world, created according to the divine model, is a web of relationships. (#240)
